Catarrh Not Local, But Constitutional.

Dr. Dio Lewis, the eminent Boston physician, in a magazine article says: "A radical error underlies nearly all medical treatment of catarrh. It it is not a disease of the man's nose; it is a disease of the man, showing itself in the nose—a Local exhibition of a Constitutional trouble." Therefore, he argues, the use of snuff and other local applications is wrong, and while they seem to give temporary relief, they really do more harm than good. Other leading authorities agree with Dr. Lewis. Hence, the only proper method of cure for catarrh is by taking a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, reaching every part of the body through the blood does, eliminate all impurities and makes the man healthier. It removes the cause of the trouble and restores the diseased membrane to proper condition. That this is the practical result is proven by thousands of people who have been cured of catarrh by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.—Advt.

School Journal, October 1st, 1892.

(Extract from the School Journal, October 1, 1892.)

"It is a mistake to suppose that private schools are not efficient; the teachers are, in most cases, college graduates; the teachers' agencies assert that no one is so exacting as the private school principal in search of a teacher.

"In the private school classification plays a small part, and teaching a large part; a pupil is taken to be advanced irrespective of his class. The constant attempt is to create interest, and to put on the pupil himself, as much as possible, the responsibility of his own development, freedom of thought, and as much as possible, of action is encouraged."
